Market Overview

October is typically a weak month if history is anything to go by. However, this year proved to be an exception. Despite a lot of political "noise" surrounding US tariff policy, ongoing tensions in the Middle East and Ukraine, and concern about rising inflation and that that means for the widely expected ongoing reduction in US interest rates, global equity markets brushed it all aside and continued to climb the proverbial "wall of worry". Investors eagerly awaited the third quarter reporting season, with expectations of continued strong corporate growth and healthy – at least in certain sectors – balance sheets. Let's dive straight into the data.

The MSCI World index rose 1.9% in October, but this was exceeded by the 4.1% return of the MSCI Emerging markets, notwithstanding the firm dollar; the dollar rose 2.1% in October. Firm commodity prices supported emerging currencies, which in turn ensured the ongoing strength in their equity and bond markets. The Japanese equity market rose 16.6% in October alone, thanks to a 4.2% decline in the yen and excitement relating to the appointment of the first lady Prime Minister. The US equity market rose 2.4% and the tech-heavy NASDAQ 4.7%. China lost 5.9% though, while the Indian equity market rose 4.6%. All in all, quite a mixed bag of returns, but most of them were positive.

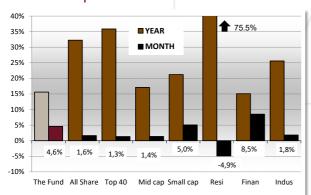

Global bond markets were steady. The Bloomberg Global Aggregated Bond index lost 0.1% but is still up 7.6% so far this year. Despite the firm dollar, commodity prices were firm, with the exception of the oil price, which lost 3.1%. Precious metal prices rose to all-time highs, copper rose 5.9%, and iron ore 3.5%. The price of bitcoin lost 3.9% although it is still up 18.3% so far this year.

Returns for periods ended 31 October 2025

Local market returns

Turning to local markets, the rand declined marginally (-0.4%) against the dollar and basic material shares gave up some of their recent heady gains. The All Share index rose 1.6%, driven by the Financial index, which rose 8.5%. The Basic Material index lost 4.9% while the Industrial index rose 1.8%. The Large, Mid, and Small cap indices rose 1.3%, 1.4% and 5.0%, respectively. The All Bond index rose 2.6%, bringing its year-to-date return to 17.1%, which can be compared to the All Share index return of 33.9% over the same period.

Investment Manager comment

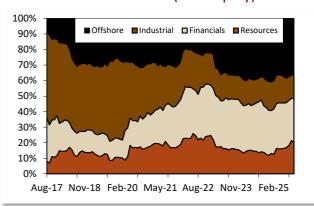

The Maestro Equity Prescient Fund rose 4.6% in October, versus the 1.6% gain of the All Share index. The primary reason for the outperformance is the Fund's underweight exposure to gold shares and the basic material sector (the latter declined 4.9% during October). There were no material changes to the Fund's portfolio during October.

The Fund adhered to its Policy objective during the month.

Collective investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. CIS's are traded at the ruling price and can engage in scrip lending and borrowing. The collective investment scheme may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio to bridge insufficient liquidity. A schedule of fees, charges and maximum commissions is available on request from the Manager. There is no guarantee in respect of capital or returns in a portfolio. A CIS may be closed to new investors in order for it to be managed more efficiently in accordance with its mandate. CIS prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (brokerage, STT, VAT, auditor's fees, bank charges, trustee and custodian fees and the annual management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of participatory interests (units) in issue. Forward pricing is used. The Fund's Total Expense Ratio (TER) reflects the percentage of the average Net Asset Value (NAV) of the portfolio that was incurred as Canteges, levies and fees related to the management of the portfolio. An Interest Nava incurred was incurred was charges, levies and fees related to the management of the portfolio. An Interest Nava incurred was incurred was incurred with the subject of the fund's underlying apport return. Risks

Liquidity risk: If there are insufficient buyers or sellers of particular investments, the result may lead to delays in trading and being able to make settlements, and/or large fluctuations in value. This may lead to larger financial losses than expected. Equity investment risk: Value of equities (e.g. shares) and equity-related investments may vary according to company profits and future prospects as well as more general market factors. In the event of a company default (e.g. bankruptcy), the owners of their equity rank last in terms of any financial payment from that company. Foreign Investment risk: Foreign securities investments may be subject to risks pertaining to overseas jurisdictions and markets, including (but not limited to) local liquidity, macroeconomic, political, tax, settlement risks and currency fluctuations. Property risk: Investments in real estate securities can carry the same risks as investing directly in real estate itself. Real estate prices move in response to a variety of factors, including local, regional and national economic and political conditions, interest rates and tax considerations.

Glossary Summary

Annualized performance: Annualized performance shows longer term performance rescaled to a 1 year period. Annualized performance is the average return per year over the period. Actual annual figures are available to the investor on request.

Highest & Lowest return: The highest and lowest returns for any 1 year over the period since inception have been shown. NAV: The net asset value represents the assets of a Fund less its liabilities.
