Market Overview

What a month April turned out to be. March was weak across all global investment markets, as the oil price surged and there was no sign of a de-escalation of the US and Israel's attack on Iran and Lebanon. The global software sector had been severely de-rated during February – the SaaS-pocalypse, remember? – and while some of the companies' ratings had recovered slightly in March, it was certainly not much to write home about.

That said, April proved to be one of the most profitable months for equity investors in years, led by US markets in general and by the technology sector in particular. As we have come to see in previous "risk-on" periods, emerging markets surged during April. I have always said that corporate earnings are vitally important, especially during times of uncertainty and market weakness. That certainly proved to be the case; major US banks and technology companies began reporting their first quarter results towards the end of April. In general, they were positive and the results from the major tech companies in particular provided further impetus to the already-strong US markets. European equity markets lagged, highlighting yet again just how far ahead of the remainder of the world the US tech sector is in terms of size, innovation, research and development, and earnings growth.

The MSCI World index rose 9.5% in April, bringing its year-to-date return to 5.2%. The MSCI Emerging market index rose 14.5% (year-to-date 13.9%). The strength was not universal across emerging markets though. Markets dominated by tech companies, such as Korea (think SK Hynix and Samsung) and Taiwan (think TSMC) led emerging markets higher. Traditional emerging markets were actually quite pedestrian, as we can see from the returns of India (6.9%), China (5.7%), and Brazil (-0.1%).

Developed markets were led higher by Japan, which rose 16.1%, and the US, which rose 10.5%. The tech-heavy NASDAQ index rose 15.3% in April alone. The German market rose 7.1%, Hong Kong 4.0% and Switzerland 2.8%.

The dollar lost 1.9% in April, which translated into strength across most other currencies. The Bloomberg Global Aggregated Bond index rose 1.3%, lifting its year-to-date return, at 0.2%, back into positive territory. The commodity complex ended the month mixed. The oil price declined 4.0% but remember it rose 64.1% in March. Precious metals were marginally firmer, and bitcoin rose strongly, up 12.1%, although its year-to-date return is still negative, at 12.8%.

Returns for periods ended 30 April 2026

Local market returns

For once the South African markets lagged most global markets, despite a relatively firm (+2.5%) rand and a “risk-on” tone in global markets. This was largely due to the weak Basic Material sector, which declined 2.2% as precious metal prices eased. The Financial and Industrial indices rose 4.3% and 3.2% respectively, resulting in the All Share index closing 1.7% higher for the month. The Large, Mid, and Small cap indices rose

1.6%, 0.9% and 3.5% respectively, while the All Bond index rose 3.3%, bringing its year-to-date loss to 0.03%.

Investment Manager comment

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) should be considered as medium to long-term investments. The value may go up as well as down and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. CIS's are traded at the ruling price and can engage in scrip lending and borrowing. The collective investment scheme may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio to bridge insufficient liquidity. A schedule of fees, charges and maximum commissions is available on request from the Manager. There is no guarantee in respect of capital or returns in a portfolio. A CIS may be closed to new investors in order for it to be managed more efficiently in accordance with its mandate. CIS prices are calculated on a net asset basis, which is the total value of all the assets in the portfolio including any income accruals and less any permissible deductions (brokerage, STT, VAT, auditor's fees, bank charges, trustee and custodian fees and the annual management fee) from the portfolio divided by the number of participatory interests (units) in issue. Forward pricing is used. The Fund's Total Expense Ratio (TER) reflects the percentage of the average Net Asset Value (NAV) of the portfolio that was incurred as charges, levies and fees related to the management of the portfolio. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TER's. During the phase in period TER's do not include information gathered over a full year. Transaction Costs (TC) is the percentage of the value of the Fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the Fund's underlying assets. Transaction costs are a necessary cost in administering the Fund and impacts Fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of Fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER. Where a current yield has been included for Funds that derive its income primarily from interest bearing income, the yield is a weighted average yield of all underlying interest-bearing instruments as at the last day of the month. This yield is subject to change as market rates and underlying investments change. The Manager retains full legal responsibility for any third party-named portfolio. Where foreign securities are included in a portfolio there may be potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds, macroeconomic risks, political risks, foreign exchange risks, tax risks, settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. The investor acknowledges the inherent risk associated with the selected investments and that there are no guarantees. Please note that all documents, notifications of deposit, investment, redemption and switch applications must be received by Prescient by or before 13:00 (SA), to be transacted at the net asset value price for that day. Where all required documentation is not received before the stated cut off time Prescient shall not be obliged to transact at the net asset value price as agreed to. Funds are priced at either 3pm or 5pm depending on the nature of the Fund. Prices are published daily and are available on the Prescient website. Performance has been calculated using net NAV to NAV numbers with income reinvested. The performance for each period shown reflects the return for investors who have been fully invested for that period. Individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestments and dividend withholding tax. Full performance calculations are available from the manager on request. For any additional information such as fund prices, brochures and application forms please go to www.maestroinvestment.co.za.

Risks

Liquidity risk: If there are insufficient buyers or sellers of particular investments, the result may lead to delays in trading and being able to make settlements, and/or large fluctuations in value. This may lead to larger financial losses than expected. Equity investment risk: Value of equities (e.g. shares) and equity-related investments may vary according to company profits and future prospects as well as more general market factors. In the event of a company default (e.g. bankruptcy), the owners of their equity rank last in terms of any financial payment from that company. Foreign Investment risk: Foreign securities investments may be subject to risks pertaining to overseas jurisdictions and markets, including (but not limited to) local liquidity, macroeconomic, political, tax, settlement risks and currency fluctuations. Property risk: Investments in real estate securities can carry the same risks as investing directly in real estate itself. Real estate prices move in response to a variety of factors, including local, regional and national economic and political conditions, interest rates and tax considerations.

Glossary Summary

Annualized performance: Annualized performance shows longer term performance rescaled to a 1 year period. Annualized performance is the average return per year over the period. Actual annual figures are available to the investor on request.

Highest & Lowest return: The highest and lowest returns for any 1 year over the period since inception have been shown.

NAV: The net asset value represents the assets of a Fund less its liabilities.
